

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

RESEARCH EXCELLENCE AND ADVANCEMENTS FOR DYSLEXIA ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. DONNA F. EDWARDS

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 26, 2015

Ms. EDWARDS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to join my colleagues in support of H.R. 3033, the Research Excellence and Advancements for Dyslexia—or READ—Act.

The READ Act directs the NSF to devote funding to support dyslexia research, and to look at that research with an eye to its practical application. This will include early identification and intervention for children with dyslexia, guidance and professional development for teachers on working with students with dyslexia, and the development of educational tools and curricula which aid those with dyslexia.

Mr. Speaker, dyslexia is the most common learning disability in America, with an estimated 1 in 6 individuals potentially suffering from some form of dyslexia. Unfortunately, many people go undiagnosed, or are diagnosed but do not have access to the resources or alternative learning methods that could help them. I remember how much effort it took just to get the school system to recognize that my son should get tested for dyslexia, not to mention getting him the interventions and tools that he needed in order to be a successful student.

We need to encourage the scientific research around dyslexia, especially as it relates to early identification and early intervention.

I encourage all of my fellow Members of Congress to support this bill.

IN HONOR OF MICHAEL GUARDINO

HON. SAM FARR

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 27, 2015

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Michael Guardino, head of Carmel High School's science department, Carmel-by-the-Sea, CA. One would be hard-pressed to find a teacher more devoted to the art of education than Mr. Guardino.

A lifetime lover of knowledge, Mr. Guardino believes that every student deserves an uncompromised understanding of the fundamental sciences, creating a classroom atmosphere known both for its incredible rigor and rewards. Each morning, he arrives before the crack of dawn, preparing fascinating demos and labs to truly engage his students. Nobody can escape his notoriously difficult AP Chemistry course without a firm comprehension and appreciation for the chemical world, even if he has to blow stuff up—in the name of science—to get his students' attention. Every day, his students are challenged in new ways to approach unfamiliar problems and create solutions based on scientific processes. Whether it is titration, qualitative analysis, spectrophotometry, or chromatography, he finds a way to make each laboratory experiment challenging and captivating.

Away from the classroom, Mr. Guardino demonstrates his passion for SCUBA by acting as a volunteer diver at the Monterey Bay Aquarium for over 30 years, teaching the ecology and chemistry of kelp forests from inside the aquarium's massive tanks. Granting his students an incredible opportunity, he arranged a tour of Ed Ricketts' lab, part of the inspiration for "Cannery Row". This allowed them to hear rich first-hand experiences of Steinbeck and "Doc" recounted by the 96-year-old Frank Wright.

Mr. Guardino cares deeply for each of his students, giving his best efforts to teach and expecting their best efforts to learn. Giving untold hours of his personal time, Mr. Guardino personally helped Ethan Miller—a student bedridden for months due to a severe illness—learn the massive amounts of chemistry covered during his absence from school. Coming to school over the weekends and even on Thanksgiving, he ensured that Ethan understood the material. His tireless work paid off: Ethan completed AP Chemistry with an A both semesters and scored highly on the AP exam, earning college credit.

Mr. Speaker, I'm sure the House joins me in thanking Mr. Guardino for his dedication to his profession and to his students.
